
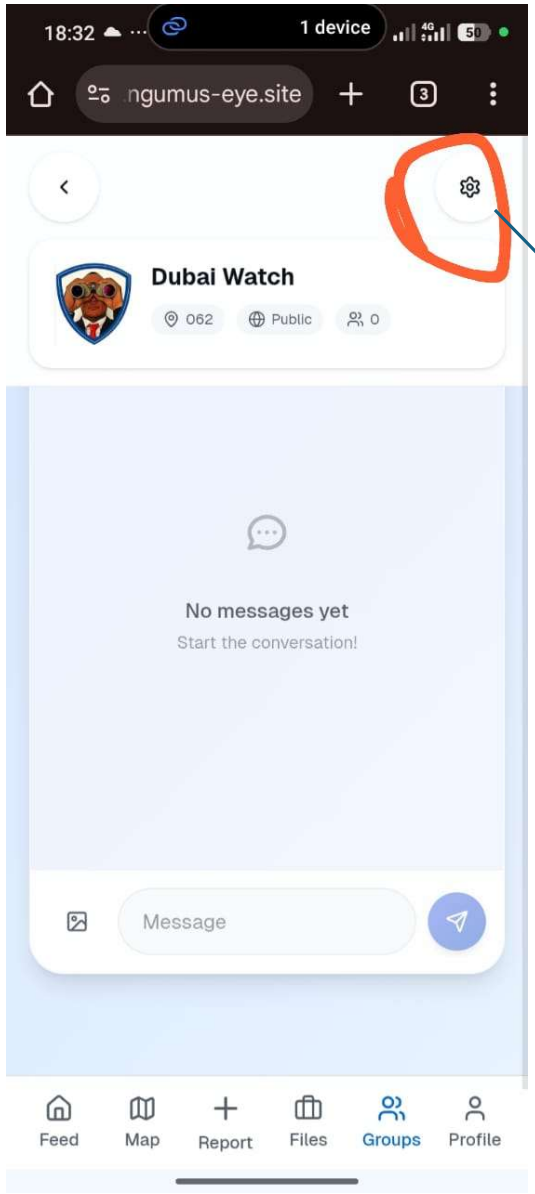
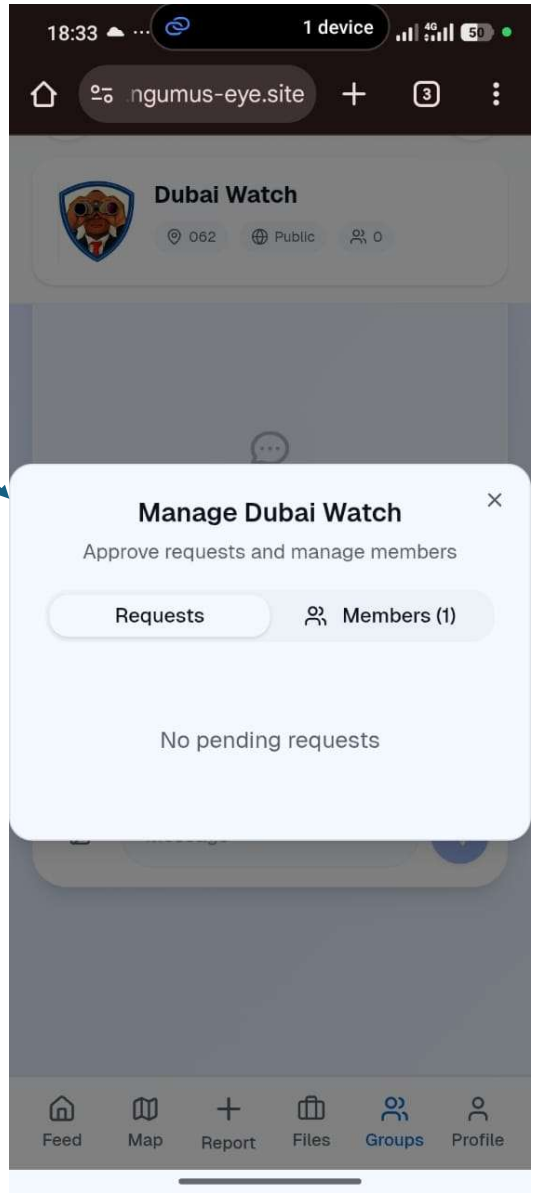
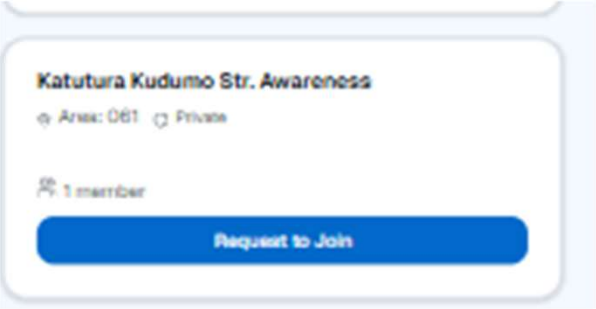
When user is already linked to a group he clicks “join Group” button – which essentially ,should read Open Group.

Then should be redirected to this page when user can type messages , send photos , etc – basically like a group chat .

When user clicks the settings icon (ONLY IF HE IS CREATOR) – he will see the Pop of Members requesting to Join Group and Current Member that the user



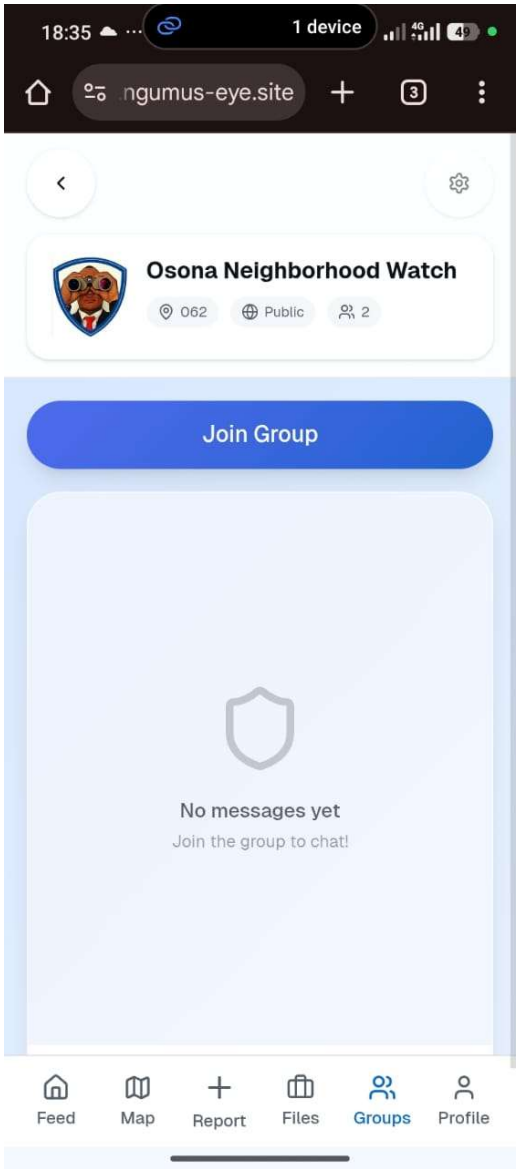


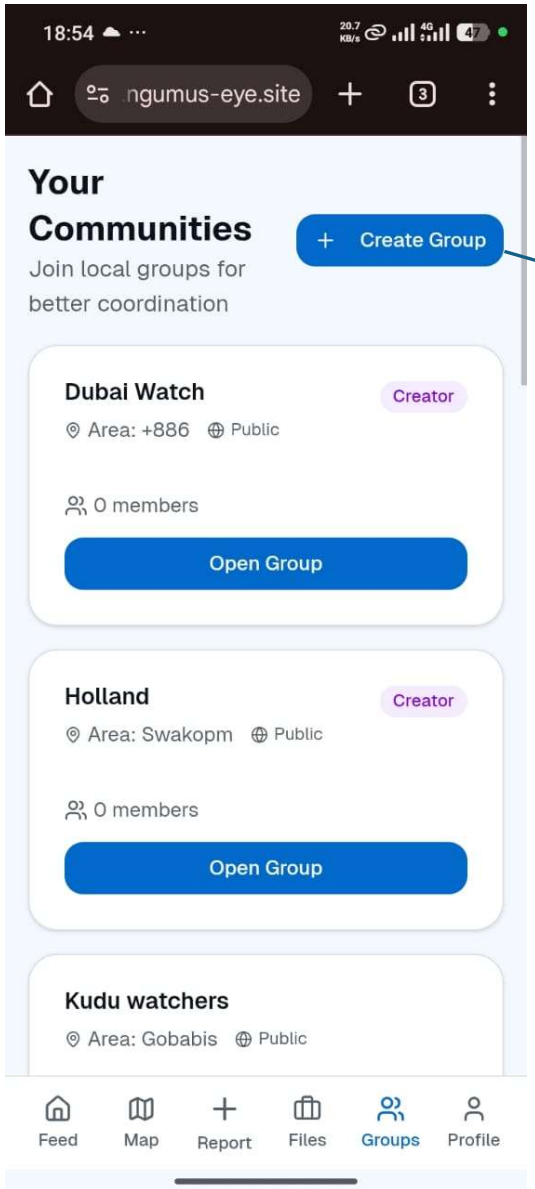


When user clicks request to join – then the group page will look like this →

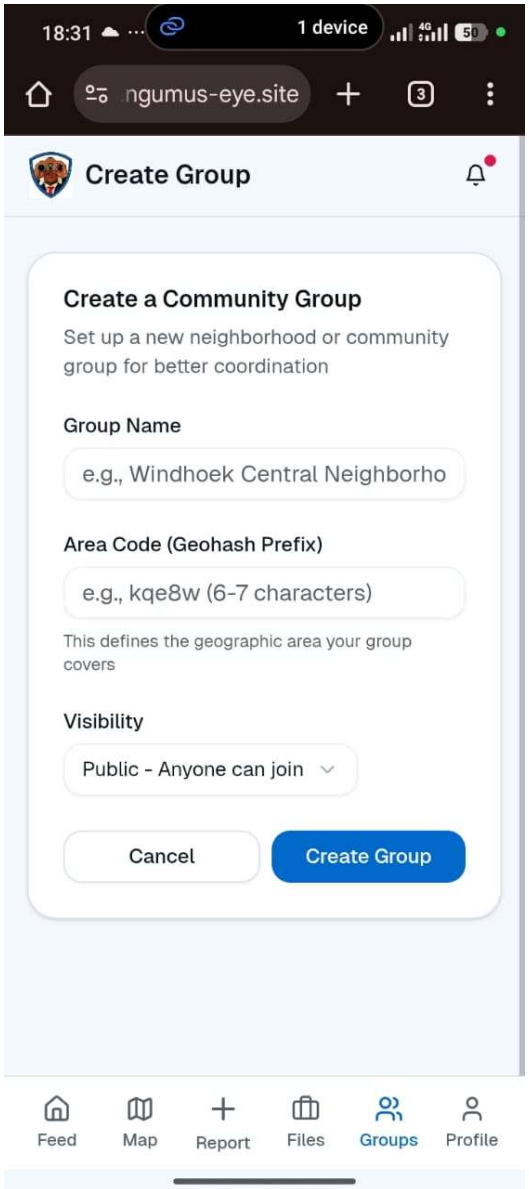
With a join group button to make formal request

User will not be able to type any message until accepted to group.





When user click create group

Must be redirected to this page and then create group name , area code and the visibility


Public – anyone can join
Private – approval required